

For Immediate Release

LOOKING FOR A STYLISH TUCK-IN? VISIONBEDDING REWARDS
CREATIVITY WITH CONTESTS
AIMED AT MOMS AND DESIGN PROFESSIONALS ALIKE

There's Still Time for TwitterMoms and Glogsters to Show Off Their Arts of Persuasion and Design; TwitterMoms Contest Ends November 17

PIERRE, South Dakota (November 9, 2009) – When you get right down to it, we could all use a bedroom makeover, couldn't we?

In that spirit, VisionBedding (www.visionbedding.com) today announced that its two current contests -- to promote its distinctive bedding-design products – are now in full swing. Social networking moms and hip designers can both bid for prizes and priceless opportunities to show off their creativity and design skills.

Modern moms have gotten social on Twitter, and VisionBedding is offering them the chance to win a bedroom makeover valued at $1,000, now through November 17. Savvy designers can strut their stuff through VisionBedding's Glogster.com contest – even earning a shot to become a VisionBedding model. The Glogster contest ends December 6.

“These contests are a really great way for VisionBedding to reach out to its core users,” said Justin Poile, VisionBedding CEO. “TwitterMoms and designers have used our services to get their creative juices flowing and to add personal touches to their design projects. Now, they can tap their talents for valuable prizes and invaluable opportunities.”

VisionBedding, in partnership with TwitterMoms -- the self-proclaimed “influential moms network” (www.twittermoms.com) – is offering social media-savvy moms the chance to revamp a room on VisionBedding's nickel. The TwitterMom who makes the best case for why she needs a bedroom makeover can actually win one. Moms can post photos, videos, and links – whatever helps their appeal.

The VisionBedding website provides the basics and more, with more than 7 million designs for pillows, blankets, murals, wall stickers, and, of course, bedding. Entries can run the gamut: from moms with sorry bedrooms that desperately need updating to those whose teen's bedroom would be picture-perfect with just that $1,000 upgrade.

For details, visit: www.VisionBedding.com/BeddingContest.php. The mom with the most creative blog entry will win a full bedroom makeover, including custom bedspread or duvet cover, two pillows, blanket, wall mural, and wall art sticker. “This contest provides a wonderful opportunity for creative moms to spruce up bedroom spaces and express themselves at the same time,” Poile said.

At the same time, VisionBedding is teaming up with the interactive poster site Glogster (www.glogster.com) to offer savvy designers opportunities to win prizes and even the chance to model. Designers will enter by creating a compelling and creative bedspread using Glogster’s online photo tool. First place wins a bedspread from VisionBedding, second place a blanket, and third place a pillow. And one lucky designer could also become a VisionBedding model. Glogster designers can showcase and compete with their good taste and their good looks, too. For more information, designers should visit <http://www.glogster.com/contest/turn-you-visions-into-dreams/>.

The two contests offer opportunities to VisionBedding users old and new to win prizes and connect to the company that brings personalization to the bedroom. VisionBedding’s ultra-soft bedspreads, duvet covers, full-size blankets, baby blankets and other baby bedding items are made from snuggly micro-suede fabric with either polar fleece accents or 100 percent cotton sateen fabric. Each is available in a choice of colors. Images are crisp, clear and offer stunning detail.

Links: Facebook Twitter

About VisionBedding

Based in Pierre, South Dakota, VisionBedding.com was launched in 2005 and has experienced great success since that time. Its unique style of home décor has been featured in VH1's reality show Mission Man Band as well as the hit movie Mall Cop and in USA Today. For additional information or to watch a video demonstration, please visit <http://www.VisionBedding.com>.

Media Contact:

Ken Greenberg
Edge Communications, Inc.
818/990-5001
ken@edgecommunicationsinc.com